Special Grand Prize—Silver cup donated by the Coal Trade Bulletin to the team making the best appearance in efficiency, training and drill, regardless of points scored. Won by team No. 13 Oliver & Snyder Steel Co., Oliver.

HEAD OF NATIONAL FARMERS' CONGRESS EXPECTS NEW LAWS

CHARLES E. SANFORD.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Charles E. Sanford, president of the farmers' national congress, expected new legislation affecting farmers would result from the thirty-third annual convention of the body which was scheduled to be held at Kansas City, Mo., the week of September 23. Among the topics on the program for discussion were a system of rural credits and rural schools.

THIEVES ENTER FAYETTE STREET HOME; MAKE HAUL

Cash, Rings and Necktie Obtained by Necessitous Thieves Enter Neighbor's House.

Growing bolder, burglars operating successfully in Connellsville for the last few weeks entered the home of George Stillwagon, 608 Fayette street, sometime during the night and stole $25.50 in cash, three rings and a gold necktie. They also effected an entrance to the home next door, occupied by the family of T. S. Cox, but though they ransacked it thoroughly, nothing was taken.

The robbery was not discovered by the Stillwagon family until they arose about 6 o'clock. An open window in the kitchen disclosed the burglar's means of entrance. The rings and the necktie were taken from a dresser in a bedroom in which several members of the family were sleeping and the money from a drawer in the kitchen. The thieves a quantity of groceries were strewn about by the intruders but none of it was stolen.

The Cox family were also unaware that their home had been visited until they came downstairs in the morning. Entrance was gained in the same way.

These robberies, with those on the West Side last Saturday morning and the petty porch thievery have served to arouse the residents thoroughly.

UP TO SMALL FARMERS

Told They Must Raise Beef to Avert a Meat Famine.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The responsibility of averting a future meat famine was put up to small farmers by speakers at the eighth annual convention of the American Meat Packers' association yesterday. The speakers agreed that if the decrease in meat production of the last 19 years is not stopped, the question of the meat supply for the people of the United States will be almost entirely solved.

To stimulate cattle raising the association voted to raise $500,000 which will be used to conduct a campaign of education among the farmers and cattle raisers. The plan outlined by President Hauer, which was adopted as a resolution, provides for raising $100,000 a year for five years to be spent in advertising and instructing the cattle raisers. The farmers are to be taught the advantages of cattle raising and how to care for cattle.

FIRE NEAR DAWSON.

Slight Damage Done to a Tyrone Township Home.

Fire broke out last night in the home of James Gilmore in Lower Tyrone township, but was extinguished before any great damage was done. It originated in the cellar, and was discovered by Mrs. Gilmore.

The Dawson fire alarm was sounded and members of the fire department hurried to the scene in an automobile. The fire was out on their arrival. The Gilmore home is about a half mile from Dawson.

FORGERY IS CHARGED.

Arrest of William May Clear Mystery of Bogus Paper.

In the arrest of Frank Wilhelm at Monaca yesterday police of the county believe they have apprehended the man who has passed numerous bogus checks throughout this section lately. Wilhelm is accused of forging the name of a constitution boss to a $7 check. He was presented before Judge Harry Brady of Monaca by Samuel Mitchell.

Mitchell Out.

The Young Deer has risen to two feet and is navigable for a considerable distance. The lone motorboat was put up and down stream this morning.

RAILROADS SPEND MILLIONS TO OPEN NEW COAL FIELDS

Much New Track is Being Built in the Pittsburgh District.

MONTOUR PROJECT THE BIG ONE

Pennsy is Improving the Panhandle to Carry More Traffic; Washington and Greeno County Operators Will be Benefited by the Development.

Many millions of dollars are being spent by the railroads in various extensions and new lines in the Pittsburgh district during the present construction season. Most of the money is being expended in the opening up of new coal lands, and when the present projects are completed much new territory will be available for exploitation and the wealth of the community will have been added to by many times as much as the work is costing.

The biggest piece of railroad construction now under way in this district is the extension of the Montour railroad from North Star, its present terminus, to Millin, where it will connect with the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio. The new road will describe nearly a semi-circle around the south and west sides of Pittsburgh, crossing five different lines in its 25 miles of length. Besides opening up 100,000 acres of new coal land, it will provide transportation facilities for hundreds of people living in the territory it will traverse, who at present live far from any railroad. It is estimated that the new line will cost $7,000,000. It is now 60 per cent completed, and will be under operation by next summer.

The Pennsylvania railroad is grading for a third track along the Panhandle main line from Hamlin to Dinwiddie, a distance of 5.4 miles. Increase of traffic has made this necessary. Railroad officials say that the need for more capacity is constantly increasing, and it is probable that in a few years three tracks will have been constructed all the way through to Connellsville.

Another piece of construction that the Panhandle line undertakes is a spur from near Meadowsdale, on the Charles Valley division, to the Macpherson mines of Pittsburgh & Buffalo Coal Company. This spur will cross the Wheeling division of the Baltimore & Ohio at Eighty-four, thus giving a much needed outlet for the mines, which have had to depend upon the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad exclusively heretofore.

BEAT U. S., THEIR GAME

France Launches Nation-Wide Program of Athletics.

PARIS, Sept. 22.—In the hope of defeating the United States at the sixth Olympiad to be held in Berlin in 1916, France today put the finishing touch on the greatest athletic organization the world has ever seen. This touch was the definite promise of $100,000 as a government subsidy to supplement private subscription for the purpose of preparing a record team to be sent to the next Olympic Games.

The War Office will allow the army to be fine-combed for material and chosen soldiers will be persuaded to "do their time" to a large extent, on either tracks and in training quarters, all expenses paid. Every school and college must contribute whatever material they have; athletic clubs are forming all over France with the one object in view: To find the men who can leave behind "those wonders from America."

PIGEON RACE STARTS

Express Agent Releases 50 Washington Birds Here.

About 50 pigeons sent by the American Racing Pigeon Company, Washington, which were shipped from that place to Connellsville with instructions to United States Express Agent C. H. Zimmermann, to liberate them at 11 o'clock this morning, were set off promptly on scheduled time on their 150 miles of flight. It was estimated that the birds can do about 75 miles an hour, and at that rate they were due in Washington at 1 o'clock.

The birds are all numbered and registered by the company which owns them and various flights are held almost every day, the express agents being entrusted with their care and the setting them off on the specified time.

It was said that some of the birds which participated in this flight are to be sent to San Francisco in a short time to begin a trip of over 2,000 miles.

Officials Attend Primary.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—President Wilson left at 8 o'clock this morning for Princeton, to cast his vote in the New Jersey primary election. Secretary Tamm and Secretary of War Garrison also left on the same train but they will cast their ballots in Jersey City.

Youth Hurt in Mines.

Lawrence Weimer, 15 years old of Rockwood, in at the Cottage State Hospital for treatment of a fractured leg suffered in the mines. Mrs. Mary Christ, 42 years old of Scottsville, was injured in the same mine.

LIBERAL DONATIONS ASSURE SUCCESS OF BIG CELEBRATION

Columbus Day Committee Books Various Exhibits; Aeroplane Flights are Promised.

Generous subscriptions to the Columbus Day celebration fund assure a big time in Connellsville on October 13 and 14. Yesterday a contract was made with a New York aviation company for an aeroplane exhibition on both days of the celebration. Flights will be made twice each day of which will be none after the dismissal of the schools so all children may have an opportunity of witnessing them. A binding contract has been entered into which guarantees satisfactory flights. This will be the first exhibition of the kind ever held in Connellsville and it alone will attract thousands of people from all sections.

It is proposed to have the flights from Greenwood hill, overlooking about the city at a height of several hundred feet. Weather being entirely satisfactory, some of the daring aerial feats will be performed with the machine. Each flight, according to the contract, must be of twenty minutes duration and not more than three quarters of an hour.

A representative of the New York Venetian Illuminating Company was here yesterday going over the ground for the purpose of estimating the material required for the street decorations. Among the street decorations will be a large arch at Himmelman Corner, illuminated with hundreds of bright colored Venetian lights. On the dome of the arch, is a proposed to erect a statue of Columbus. Two other arches, besides strings of lights will be placed at other points about the city.

Another feature of the celebration, entirely new in this section, will be a display of daylight fireworks, fired from the west bank of the river, opposite city hall. This will also take place following dismissal of the schools. The display at night will be the largest ever put off in Connellsville.

MORE PAVING UNLIKELY

Not Probable Council Will Get New Jobs Under Way This Fall.

Arthur Page of Mount Pleasant who secured the contract to pave the city streets, has been notified by the council that the paving of the city streets will not be started until next spring. The council yesterday and will begin work later in the week, when his material and supplies arrive.

Another piece of the paving work will be planned for the winter work if the month of the weather does not interfere and the street will be kept open as much as possible during the course of the work, so that drivers may not have to make the use of detours. The paving work which will be necessary if the street is closed entirely to traffic.

Council's next meeting will be on October 3, and the four expressed that some of the proposed paving jobs will not be started before bad weather sets in, as the execution of contracts and preliminary arrangements of the contractors will make it impossible to begin any of the jobs before the second or third week in October.

SETTLE THE CASE.

Assault and Battery Prosecution Prompted by Payment of Costs.

Robert Copper of Lehighport, Pa., was arraigned before Judge P. M. Buttermore of the West Side yesterday on a charge of assault and battery of the peace. The information was made by Anna Kapulko a neighbor of Copper.

Copper and his wife quarreled and to escape him Mrs. Copper ran into the Kapulko home. The prosecutor alleged that Copper threatened her with a knife and was in the act of striking her when she fled. The case was set for trial before Judge Buttermore on October 3.

MERCHANTS STRONG FOR A STYLE SHOW; MANY ARE IN LINE

Enthusiastic Meeting Held to Discuss Next Month's Project.

THOSE WHO WILL PARTICIPATE

List is Not Yet Complete as Others are Certain to Join in the Movement; Details It Will Prove Significant Feature Than Bargain Days.

Merchants interested in the Style Show, to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 8, 9 and 10, met last evening in the Chamber of Commerce to discuss plans. The committee reported that excellent progress has already been made, and from all prospects the Style Show will prove as great a success as did bargain days.

Since the meeting held over a week ago, a number of merchants were visited by the committee and have decided to join in the movement, and lend every assistance possible to make the affair one of the great events of the business year.

Among the merchants interested in the movement are the Wright-Metzer Company, Kohabekers, E. Dunn, W. N. Leche, Hooper & Long, C. W. Downes, H. J. Wallace, Furniture Company, Max Levine, S. M. Goodman, Millard & Berthals, Dave Cohen, Westheimer Brothers, J. Goodwin, J. W. McClure, Mrs. Flora McFarland, W. R. Arthur, A. V. Bishop, Mrs. J. R. Bate, Wallace Furniture Company, Crowley & Mastreani, The Bonair, Featherman Furniture Company, West Penn Pharmacy, Union Clothing Company, L. J. Gishburg, M. H. Levinson, Mrs. M. P. Storey, C. M. Hyatt, Thomas & Brown, William Herzberg and Graham & Co.

PLEADS FOR SULZER

D-Club Herick Denounces Mother's Back of Impeachment Proceedings.

ALBANY, Sept. 22.—Driven into their last line of defense, the Sulzer forces tonight did their utmost to avert a vote on the impeachment of Governor Sulzer. The D-Club Herick, however, was not to be deterred. With D-Club Herick leading the argument, the speakers emphatically declared that the attorneys for the defense had no desire to shield Sulzer. "That," he said, "this is a government of laws and not of men. The assembly is only privileged to bring articles of impeachment and the court to try the governor by the laws of the state for willful and corrupt misconduct in office."

He declared that Sulzer is charged in four well defined paragraphs in office but in fact refused to commit crimes in office. He asked if it would be just to remove an honest public official from office, even though placed there by the corrupt practices of a coterie of men, for misconduct in office that consisted of failure to obey these men and commit crimes in office.

DENIES PAYMENTS

Former Clerk Makes Exceptions to Claim of Barton Estate.

SOMERSET, Sept. 22.—Charles C. Shaffer, Somerset, a former clerk of the orphan's court, through his attorney Charles W. Walker, has filed exceptions to the account of Henry F. Barton, former cashier of the Farmers National Bank, as guardian of the estate of Corn C. Schrock, late of Millport township, in which he denies that Barton ever paid him his fees in the Schrock estate amounting to $3,000. Shaffer was clerk when Barton was appointed guardian of minor children in the Schrock estate. In his account filed shortly before he died, Barton claimed credit for $2,900 paid to Shaffer as fees.

In the divorce proceedings of Mary Shaffer against John Martin, of Millport, Judge Ruppel on Monday appointed Attorney Herman L. Baer master to take testimony.

Immunity Fatal to One.

SCRANTON, Sept. 22.—Irene Wolf, aged 40 years, was instantly killed, and J. T. Smith, a traveling salesman from Allentown, Pa., was fatally injured when a horse driven by the former became frightened and dashed down a steep hill, colliding with a telegraph pole and throwing both occupants of the carriage out.

Sets His Dismissal.

E. L. Moxley, dismissed of his dismissal at Foxtower and as soon as the license is transferred he will return to Connellsville, having rented an apartment in the Dunn-Paine building. The deal was made to a Pittsburgh party.

Reward for Robbers.

Chief of Police Ratter has received a check offering a reward for the capture of two men who assaulted and robbed Charles E. Puffer, the Oakland, California, broker in his office on September 2 and stole jewelry and stocks valued at many thousands of dollars.

Mass in London for Sullivan.
LONDON, Sept. 22.—High mass of requiem for "Big Tim" Sullivan, the New York congressman and political leader, was celebrated in Corpus Christi Church today.

HE'S HANDLING THE CONGRESS FIGHT FOR REPUBLICANS.

REPRESENTATIVE FRANK P. WOODS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Representative Frank P. Woods of Iowa as new chairman of the Republican congressional committee faces the important task of handling the congressional elections next year. Mr. Woods has already begun to lay his plans for a campaign which he hopes will restore some of the congressional districts to the Republican fold.

RETREAT FOR MEN BEGINS WITH CATHOLICS TOMORROW

Services Will Close Sunday With Reception to New Members of Holy Name Society.

Commencing tomorrow and closing Sunday evening with a reception of new members into the Holy Name Society, a retreat for all men of the Immaculate Conception Church will be held under the direction of the Reverend Father James J. Quinn, pastor of the church of Resurrection, formerly missionary of the Pittsburgh Apostolate. All members over 16 are expected to make the men's retreat. Special services will be held for the boys under 16 years Sunday morning with mass at 7:15 and instruction at 4:15 P. M. The order of the retreat will be as follows:

At 5:00 A. M., mass, instruction, sermon, 7:45 P. M., recitation, instruction, sermon and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

The subjects of the instructions and sermons will be as follows: Wednesday evening, instruction on "Confession," sermon on "Salvation," Thursday morning, instruction on "Purity," sermon on "Honesty," Thursday evening, instruction on "Holy Communion," sermon on "Heaven."

Friday morning, instruction on "Temperance," sermon on "Purity," Friday evening, instruction on "Prayer," sermon on "Heaven," Saturday morning, instruction on "Devotion," sermon on "Religious Practice," Saturday evening, sermon, "Indulgence."

Sunday morning, sermon, "Holy Sacrifice at the Mass," Sunday evening, sermon, "Holy Name."

CHURCH WAR NOW ON

Attack on Members of Congregation Follows Sunday Riot.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 23.—Following the riot in St. Mary's Greek Catholic Church at New Salem, Sunday when Rev. Father Anthony Mahaley, the pastor, was stripped of his vestments, John Kapusko, a member of the faction opposed to the priest, was shot and probably fatally injured. Kapusko is in the Uniontown Hospital with two bullet wounds in his head.

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning while Kapusko was waiting for a car at New Salem he was attacked by a number of men. He says he recognized several members of the church in the attacking party. Kapusko was found lying beside the tracks and brought to the local hospital.

George Maske was arrested in New Salem last evening for storming the priest's house. Every window in the house was broken.

TO SETTLE ROTTEN CASE.

Health Board Will Decide If He Is to Retain His Job.

The Board of Health will decide tonight whether Chief of Police Ratter can hold that office together with his previous job as health officer.

If he is allowed to keep both of them his salary as health officer will be reduced, as it is the sentiment of the board that as police chief he cannot devote the proper amount of time to his duties in the health department which are really sufficient to occupy every minute of a man's time every day in the year.

TWO VACCINATED CHILDREN DIE

Successful to Lockjaw Following Complications With Smallpox.

THRENTON, N. J., Sept. 22.—Raymond E. Clay, 5 years old, and Catherine Egan, 7 years, pupils in the public school at Morrisville, Pa., died of lockjaw in a hospital here today as the result of taking the smallpox vaccine this year, having been vaccinated.

The children were compelled to submit to the vaccination at the opening of the school year this month under a Pennsylvania's school law.

HEAVY FROST FALLS IN COKE REGION ON SUMMER'S LAST DAY

Considerable Damage to Late Vegetation Reported by Farmers.

EARLY WINTER IS PREDICTED

Birds Prepare to Migrate and the Squirrels are Building Their Winter Quarters Six Weeks Ahead of Time; Mercury Drops to 38 Degrees.

According to official figures summer ended at 5:15 o'clock this morning and autumn is now on the job. According to the temperature, however, it would seem that winter had slipped in. The mercury was so low last night and this morning that overcasts were hastily pressed into service, and in many cases a quick change was made to the "heavy ones." The minimum temperature was 38 degrees which establishes a record for this season, the lowest figure that the mercury recorded previously having been 41.

A heavy frost fell during the early morning hours, as predicted yesterday, and this morning there was a rush of gardeners to pick what perishable late fruits and vegetables were left in their beds. It was a common sight in the early morning hours to see men and women taking the green tomatoes from the vines, to try afterward to extract the frost from them by various means reported to be efficacious. There were few green vegetables untouched, according to reports.

Reports of snow in the northern section of the country, combined with the almost unprecedented low temperature of this season, seemed to presage an early winter, as well as a hard one. Those who are versed in nature's signs declare that the animals and birds are already preparing for a siege of it, about six weeks ahead of the usual schedule, and they always seem to know what is coming in the weather line. The birds are preparing for their southward flight.

The clothing dealer, the coal man and the gas man are the ones who are smiling today, for the promise of continued cold weather means business for them. The ice man isn't worrying about a famine just now.

Reports from various sections of the county state that there was some snow and sleet mixed with yesterday's rain.

NEW CURE FOR ASTHMA

Serum Used for One 60 Found to Be Effective.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Something new in curing asthma was tried at Hahnemann Hospital yesterday when a thousand units of anti-carbuncle serum was given to Benjamin Abraham, 42 years old. The treatment will be continued for several days.

Abraham has suffered for years from asthma. Three years ago physicians gave up hope for his recovery. Then a large carbuncle developed and Dr. C. Dudley Saul injected several hundred units of anti-carbuncle serum. Abraham noticed that the attacks of asthma became less severe and called Dr. Saul's attention to the fact. Another carbuncle was treated and the asthma attacks again became milder. Doctor Saul decided to try the serum in the case of the asthma patient who was cured.

BIGELOW NOT READY TO ACT

Delays Inauguration of Township Highway Bureau.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—State Highway Commissioner Bigelow said last night there were some details to work out before he could take up the organization of the Township Highway Bureau authorized by the Legislature, which became effective today. It is believed one of the present deputies, Joseph W. Hunter of Jonkintown, or E. A. Jones of Scranton, will be appointed head of the bureau.

Under this act townships are required to submit to the

GOOD ROADS AND BAD POLITICS.

The Good Roads men are just as enthusiastic as ever, but some of them are beginning to look the gift horse in the mouth; in other words, to scent extravagance; to question the manner in which the money shall be expended and the work performed; to doubt the wisdom of placing in the hands of one Pennsylvania administration so much political power as is lodged in the Highway Department under the present scheme of road improvement, state and local.

The letting of various contracts for state roads has been the subject of vague criticism and jealous suspicion, but nothing improper in connection therewith has been developed or is likely to be, but as a rule the bidders were few and the bidding inactive because of building conditions. No sinister extraneous influences are apparent. The industrial world has been busy. Labor has been scarce. Then, too, it should be remembered that the modern contractor must be a man of some capital and experience to engage and compete in such contract work.

It is now discovered by some of the political organs opposed to the present Pennsylvania state administration that the road laws enacted recently practically put all the highways of the state under the immediate supervision of the Highway Department and incidentally subject the local road supervisors to the general direction of the state authorities. The supervisors, too, have had their share of blemishes in the past. The opposition sees in these changes a gigantic political machine to promote Republican control.

This is a highly imaginative picture at best. On the other hand, it seems to be an attempt to bring into new methods into public road building. It will be recalled that the notorious inefficiency of the old system of township supervision and the working out of taxes on the roads have been the subjects of complaint for years past and that the criticisms have been general and bitter. The new law is designed to remove the conditions complained of. Perhaps it is not perfect. It may be used at times by unscrupulous politicians to promote selfish ends; but in the final analysis it will be found to be an unqualified improvement upon past conditions.

Political machines are perhaps not wholly necessary to civil government, but public authority must be lodged somewhere. It, therefore, is silly to say that a man clothed with such authority may use it to promote political interests, and that consequently it should not be placed in his hands. These complaints, however, come invariably from those who seek to break into office and get upon official power, and who, whenever they have been successful, have used their positions and powers with more unscrupulousness than any others.

It is not too much to say that no good road was ever laid down in this country without being more or less linked with politics, and it is doubtful whether it is possible to change the rule. There is no objection to a little politics with great reform. In fact, there have been great reforms without strenuous politics.

Judging from the returns there was nothing in the Conneltsville primary for petty politicians and vote brokers. The expense accounts of the candidates were so honest and pathetic as to be close to penury.

Jack Frost and Football arrived on the same train.

The practical suspension of the Mexican coke production ought to help the smaller trade of the Conneltsville region. American capital ought to get something out of the Mexican situation by way of compensation for its losses.

The Conneltsville region is always heard from where first aid teams compete.

Medical inspection in the Conneltsville schools is on its way. It is slow in coming, but great reforms never ride on prancing steeds. They may, however, be helped on their way by speedy automobiles.

The Woolworth building is making a flying finish.

West Virginia's early ambitions to become a coke-producing state seem to have been abandoned. The coal business is at present good enough for her.

A great many electric chairs are being taken out and put in cold storage.

The hunters' license records of Fayette county show some female holders, but an enthusiastic Diana does not argue a militant Suffragette.

The Methodist reunion indicates that Methodism encourages longevity. Consistent Christianity means good moral, good morals mean right living, right living means long living. The logic of it is irresistible.

Now is reported in Ohio and the Lake regions. Old Winter seems to be pushing the season.

What has become of the brilliant fighting project of George Jerusalem Kaiber?

The West Side seems to have a race war on hand. It is to be hoped that it will not be necessary to call out the reserves.

It is suggested that George Hetzel be appointed Health Officer in room of Berthold Rottler appointed Chief of Police. "A fair exchange is no robbery."

The Young Men's Christian Association is becoming a popular young men's club. That is the sort of popularity that makes the association's success complete.

The concrete sidewalks have come to Conneltsville to stay, but the smooth finish should be taboo. It is dangerous to life and limb during wet and icy weather.

The Westmoreland Lochinvar who died in Somerset county didn't count on the flying freight train.

The mining class of the Young Men's Christian Association is growing to highly gratifying proportions.

Hans Schmidt, the New York murderer, is reported to be a poet. He is also a butcher.

The Pittsburgh politicians are working double time this year. There is a race between the primary and the election.

Looking Backward.

News of the Past Continued from the Files of The Courier.

SEPTEMBER 18, 1862.

Of the 3,195 ovens in the Conneltsville region only 953 were idle in the past week. Demand continues good at $1.10. Cars are extremely scarce. Hoses and equipment for the tire department arrive and there is talk of a volunteer department.

James Scott sells his printing office and departs for the West in search of his fortune.

The grading of Pittsburgh street which has been going on for some time is nearing completion. Elizabeth Strawn enters suit against A. B. Morton for dower interest in certain real estate of her husband whose property was sold at bankruptcy sale.

Burgess Gray expresses fear that time will not be enough to pay the bond of the lock-up judges.

SEPTEMBER 22, 1893.

Detailed report of the operation and output of the region for the week ending Saturday, September 18, shows only 4,343 ovens in blast against 13,917 idle, with a total estimated production of 28,390 tons, a marked improvement over previous week. The shipments aggregated 2,018 cars consisting as follows: Pittsburgh and river apples, 905; to points east of Pittsburgh, 612 cars; to points east of Conneltsville, 521. The active ovens ran 5,04 days last week, a trifle less than the week before.

Reunion of 122nd Pennsylvania Volunteers held at the rink. Colonel H. N. Warren, who commanded the regiment, makes principal address. First Board of Health appointed. The following names were announced by council: Dr. H. C. Atkinson, five years; John Jones, four years; H. P. Snyder, three years; Dr. M. B. Shupe, two years; Charles DeMuth, one year.

Dead wreck at Foley's cut in which 12 cars were demolished, four loose cars having crashed into another train on the steep grade.

Charles Weaver died from injuries sustained when caught between cars near Smithton.

Charles Tarr, a noted crook, captured here and turned over to the United States authorities on charge of defrauding old soldiers of their pensions.

SEPTEMBER 18, 1903.

Detailed report of the operation and output of the Conneltsville region for the week ending Saturday, September 12, shows a total of 27,170 ovens, of which 25,575 are active and 1,595 idle. The estimated production for the same period was 200,191. Shipments aggregated 10,810 cars, distributed as follows: To Pittsburgh and river apples, 4,731; to points east of Pittsburgh, 1,838; to points east of Conneltsville, 4,241.

Wyman Hotel taken over by Quinman Marlette. Extensive repairs are promised.

A. O. opens new quarters for business who lay over in Conneltsville. Bath and bunk are provided for the use.

John Metzler, a United States Express employee, sustains severe injuries while lifting load of provisions.

The Grouch.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

The grouch is the only other biped besides the human being who wears clothes and pays taxes.

The grouch looks like a man and there is a closed season on him all the year 'round which accounts for his numbers. In fact he was originally designed as a man, but through a mistake his life was put in his brain instead of his liver, thus spoiling him for ordinary conversational purposes.

The grouch has a disposition half way between that of a hyena and a case of grippe. If he were mounded up and essayed he would not yield one ounce of good nature per carload. He has a built-in front and the only time he smiles is when his little son stubs his toe and hurts himself just as the grouch said he would if he didn't keep being happy and bothering him.

The grouch doesn't believe in anything and cannot be persuaded to do anything—even to go away and remain hence. He is usually either mad or just about to succeed in discovering a reason to be mad. Put one grouch in a hall full of happy cheering men and in half an hour he will spread as much ill-nature as that the police will have to turn off the festivities.

The grouch does not contribute anything but the general gloom. He does not approve of anything, he declines to be mollified by anything. He has only one redeeming feature. That is love for himself. The grouch is generally as good to himself as he is to his own grandmother. He is kind and forbearing with his own faults and while all the world is saying harsh things about him he nobly refrains. The grouch would be mentally satisfied with himself if that did not involve being satisfied with a work of Nature.

There is no way to get rid of a grouch except to move the town.

"The only time he smiles is when his little son stubs his toe."

away from him. They are generally long lived because vinegar is a great preservative. However, the longer the grouch lives to live with himself the more terribly he is punished, which proves that we should not murmur or repine over the ways of Providence. If there were no grouches all funerals which take place would be a dead loss to the community.

A Lie Can't Live in the Light.

The great modern light that never dims is newspaper publicity.

Advertisers are rigidly careful as to the statements they make through the columns of good newspapers. Like THE COURIER because they know any other course would be fatal.

They advertise to build reputation for service—and the first requisite of service is truth telling in word and deed. Modern business is done in the open.

Every safeguard is given to the buyer. He is not looked on as a transient of today, but as a friend to be made for tomorrow.

Newspapers watch their advertising as carefully as they do their editorials.

You get a certain degree of insurance when you patronize a merchant who frankly comes into the light and gives you his reasons for wanting your patronage.

NEWS OF THE DAY AS GATHERED UP ABOUT SCOTSDALE

New Ice Company Strikes a Fine Well of Water

WHERE THEY ARE NOW BUILDING

J. J. Barnfield and Family Leaving for England; Heavy Frost Falls Last Night; Will of Mrs. Logan is Pro-bated; Other Notes from Mill Town.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, Sept. 21.—Sparkling crystal pure water is assured the ice manufacturing plant which is being built by the Scottdale Ice Company composed of J. V. Perry, L. L. Stober, Clayton Graybill, Daniel Trout and J. B. Wilbur, on ground which they purchased from the Crescent Manufacturing Company.

The well they put down for 77 feet with an eight inch bore is giving forth a superb quality of water, as shown by analysis. A testing pump was put on the well and was run for four hours, pumping between 75 and 100 gallons per minute, without attenuating the flow of the well. The plant will use, to begin with, 50 gallons of water per minute in their ice making operations.

The foundations for the ice plant are already up and will support a one-story building 48x100 feet in dimensions. Besides running an ice plant there will be a coal yard operating in connection with the plant, giving work to several teams.

TO ENGLAND.

J. J. Barnfield and family of wife and three children of Second avenue, leave today for New York where they will sail for Birmingham, England, where they will visit with old friends and relatives. It may be that they will conclude to make that place their future home. The family has been living in Scottdale for some time, and Mr. Barnfield was employed as a steamship man in the American Street & Tin Plate Company.

A FROST.

Jack Frost was about with his paint brushes on Monday night and laid on the white with a heavy hand, so that the roofs and other flat surfaces were well covered. This has been a recent autumn for the first time in many years, and the frost which have now fallen. The tomato crop is in a discouraged way, there being a great many ready to ripen, but which the rain and frost have spoiled.

WILL OF PROBATE.

The will of Rose A. Logan, late of East Huntingdon township, has been filed for probate in Greensburg. Her property is left to her three daughters shane and share alike. The estate is valued at about $25,000.

VISITING HERE.

Mrs. Allen Cameron of Oakbrook,
Iowa; Miss Sylvia Smith of Woodburn and Miss Ella Woods of New Sharon, have been guests of the couple, Mrs.
William A. Bacon of Scottdale and Mrs. William McLaughlin of Ebersen for a few days.

IS AT HOME.

Mrs. George C. Cole of Pittsburgh street, has returned from a few days' visit with her sister, Mrs. M. M.
Truher and her mother, Mrs. M. S.
Purbaugh of Meyersdale. Mrs.
Purbaugh has been seriously ill for some time.

CLUB DANCE.

The Junata Club has issued invitations for a dance to be given at Field
Hall, Scottdale, on Friday evening,
October 3, from 8 to 12, with music by Kiefer. The committee in charge is made up of Walter J. Miller, Charles E. East and Clayton L. Eber, and a very pleasant time is expected.

FROM YORKSHIRE.

J. B. Wilbur of Youngstown, O., has been here for a few days visiting his brother-in-law, J. V. Perry.

PROFESSOR HERE.

Professor Modesto Jacobini, teacher of the Langston in Waynesburg College, was here on Friday visiting Howard Williams, a student of the college, and took dinner with him at Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Gordon's. Professor Jacobini was at Uniontown, Connecticut, and Scottdale while the

FAMOUS "MUTT" AND "JEFF" SCARF PINS FREE

Tobacco Dealers Supplying Smokers
With This Pleasing Novelty.

In connection with the sale of Omar cigarettes in this city, local dealers are giving away, for a few days, to each purchaser of a single package, of Omar cigarettes, a "Mutt" or "Jeff" scarf pin. These pins are an absolute novelty. Everyone familiar with Budd Fisher's famous characters
"Mutt and Jeff" which appear in the papers all over the country, will be delighted to secure one. They are at the same time amusing and an attractive ornament, and in connection with the sale of Omar cigarettes should prove particularly attractive to local smokers.

The gift of these scarf pins throughout the city is made to ensure a wide trial of Omar cigarettes, because of the belief on the part of the manufacturers that smokers generally will like and continue using this brand and it will in that way be fully justified by results in other cities. The character is described as a new Turkish blend of very high quality, with a flavor and fragrance which are wholly different and unequalled. The high evident value of the gold-plated pins is certainly evidence of remarkable confidence.

TABLES OF THE LAW REPLACED.

Review—Sept. 23.
"There are a God ready to pardon, merciful, and merciful, slow to anger, and abundant in loving kindness."—Nehemiah 9:17.

WHOMER fails to see that Moses, Israel and the Law were types, fails to get the real lesson out of them, but of the entire Church, of which Jesus is the Head, this St. Peter explains, saying, "Moses truly said unto the fathers, A Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me."—Acts 3:22.

Jesus was raised up first, and since Pentecost the raising up from amongst the brethren has progressed. The work will be consummated when the full number of the Church shall have been accepted to glory. Then the antitypical Moses will begin his great work of delivering all desiring to return to harmony with God—all of whom are represented in the twelve tribes of Israel.

The Church of this Gospel Age is otherwise called the Church of the First-born, typically represented in the tribe of Levi, all of whom represented the first-born of Israel, saved in the Passover. These were divided into two classes—the priests and their servants. The priests represented the Christ—High Priest and under priests. The Levites represented the remainder of the overcomers.

The antitypical priests will become a Royal Priesthood, Jesus, the great High Priest, invested with kingly honors, will have associated with himself the faithful Little Flock, His joint-heirs. The remainder of the overcomers will be collaborators on a less glorious plane, yet spiritual. Their work will be primarily the blessing of mankind.

The First Tables of the Law.
The first tables of the Law were prepared by the Lord Himself. This represents the fact that man was created a perfect image of his Creator, in full accord with the Divine will and fully expressive of the Divine Law. Adam needed no other law than that which was in and of himself as a perfect man—God's law was written in his heart. But by reason of sin this Law was broken. Poor humanity has no longer a proper judgment respecting sin and righteousness. Man needs the great Mediator, to make reconciliation for his iniquity and to rewrite the Law of God in his flesh.

Then Moses was instructed to hew out the two tables of the Law. This represents that the Christ is fully commissioned to prepare the hearts of mankind for the rewriting of the Divine Law. To prepare men to obey God's Law will require their restitution—their lifting up out of sin and degradation. This work, committed to Moses in the type, is in the antitype committed to Christ.

Moses' second coming with the two tables of the Law was peculiarly different from the first. His face shone; and it was necessary for him to put on a veil, which thereafter he wore in the presence of the Israelites, but removed when entering the presence of God. Christ's work as Mediator, at His Second Coming, will be accompanied by a veiling of His glory, so that the world will not see Jesus. "This He declared, 'Yet a little while, and the world will see Me no more; but ye shall see Me.'" The Apostle explains that the Church will be prepared to see Christ in His glory by being changed from earthly to heavenly nature.

At His Second Advent, our Lord will veil His glory from mankind, and not directly from the spirit plane. Mankind will see Jesus no more. Instead, they shall see His representatives—the Ancient Worthies—as He declared, saying, "Ye shall see Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and all the Prophets." The world will see them in human perfection, samples of what mankind may attain during the restitution time.

Other Features of the Type.
The anointing of the Anointed priesthood typified the anointing of the Royal Priesthood. As in the type sacrifices were necessary before anointing and consecration to the priestly office, so in the antitype Jesus must offer Himself, thereby allowing His loyalty to God, by sacrificing even unto death.

Similarly, the under-priesthood consecrated to office only by sacrifice. In the case of the typical high priest, the sacrifice was a bullock. The antitype was our Lord's own body. In the case of the typical under priests, the sacrifice was a goat. The antitype is the human nature of the Church—the brethren 12:14-15.

The typical mediator offered typical sacrifices. The real Mediator offers "better sacrifices." The typical mediator led the typical people into the typical Promised Land. The antitypical Mediator, during the thousand years of His reign, will lead God's people back to the blessings and privileges lost through Adam's disobedience, and redeemed by the sacrifice on Calvary.

BLUE SERGE AND SATIN.

The smart serge frock shown in the accompanying cut has been rendered smart by its proportions and good lines without resorting to extremes. It is of the perennial navy blue color and has a simple pendant blouse opening over a blue satin vest the edges of which are finished with narrow pleatings of the same. The line of the skirt slopes up over so slightly toward the front and the back is here tied in a bow with a single end. The pleatings which appear on the vest are repeated on the skirt and sleeves and are the only trimming on the frock. The skirt closes on the left side and here it is draped and knotted near the hem and decorated with a full of the satin.

THE MAIDS OF PARADISE

By Robert W. Chambers
Author of "Cardigan," "The Conspirators," "Maids-at-Arms," etc.

"Certainly," said Speed, cheerily. "We'll drink up the whole district from Pontivy to Lurey and from Penmach Point to Ploharrell. Why should the Breton peasantry not come? Don't they walk miles for the Pardon?"

A gray pallor settled on Dyrant's sunken face; with it came a certain dignity which sorrow sometimes brings even to men like him.

"Young gentlemen," he said, "I'm obliged to you. These here revenues come to everybody, I guess. The Lord knows just; but if he'll just let me run my show a little longer, I'll pay my debts and say, 'Thy will be done, amen!'"

After a painful silence he rose, steadying himself with his hand on Dyrant's broad shoulder, and shuffled

"Long Live the Republic! Long Live the Circus!"

out across the square, muttering something about his elephant and his camel.

Speed paid the insignificant bill, emptied his glass, and nodded at him. "It's all up," he said, soberly. "Let's come back to camp and talk it over," he said.

Together they traversed the square under the stars, and entered the fold of elow. In the dim, smoky camp all lights were out except one old-drenched torch stuck in the ground between the two tents.

Speed had some cigarettes, and he laid the pink package on the table. "I lighted one when he did."

"Do you really think there's a chance?" he asked, presently.

"I don't know," I said.

"Well, we can try."

"Oh yes."

"I'll tell you what," Speed said. "If we only had that poor little girl, Miss Claridge, we'd catch these Bretons. That's what took the coast-folk all over Europe, so Grog says."

Miss Claridge had performed to a large glass tank as the "Leaping Mermaid." It took like wildfire according to our fellow-performers. We had never seen her; she was killed by diving into her tank when the circus was at Antwerp in April.

"Can't we get up something like that?" I suggested, hopefully.

"Who would do it?" Miss Claridge's twinkling eyes were in the prop-box; who's to wear them?"

He began to say something else, but stopped suddenly, eyes fixed. Jacqueline stood behind me in the smoky light of the torch—Jacqueline, bare of arm and knee, with her sea-blue eyes very wide and the witch-like clustering around the dim oval of her face.

After a moment's absolute silence she said: "I came from Paradise. Don't you remember?"

"Of course I remember you, Jacqueline. And I have an idea you ought to be in bed."

"Won't you sit down?" asked Speed.

"Thank you," said Jacqueline, gravely.

She curled herself on a sack of sand, clasping her slender hands between her knees, and looked earnestly at the elephant. Speed asked her, jokingly, why she did not join the circus. "It is what I wish," she said, under her breath.

"And ride white horses?"

"Will you take me?" she cried, passionately, springing to her feet.

Anxiously at her earnestness, I tried to explain that such an idea was out of the question. She listened anxiously at first, then her eyes fell and she stood there in the torch-light, head hanging.

"I should like to see a circus," she said. "Then I should know what to do. That I can swing higher than any girl in Paradise has been demonstrated often," she went on, earnestly. "I can swim farther, I can dive deeper, I can run faster, with bare feet or with no shoes, than anybody, man or woman, from the Beacon to Our Lady's chapel."

"So you can dive and swim?" asked Speed, with a glance at me.

"Like the salmon in the Laita, monsieur."

"Under water?"

"Parfait!"

After a pause I asked her again. "Fifteen, M'sieu Scarlett. Won't you take me?" she asked, sweetly.

"I'll tell you what I'll do, Jacqueline," said I. "Very early in the morning I'll go down to your house and see your father. Then, if he makes no objection, I'll set you to put on a pretty swimming suit, all made out of silver scales, and you can show me, there in the sea, how you can dive and swim and play at mermaid. Does that please you?"

She looked earnestly at me, then at Speed.

"Is it a promise?" she asked, in a quivering voice.

"Yes, Jacqueline."

"Then I thank you, M'sieu Scarlett, and you, monsieur. And I will be waiting for you when you come. We live in the house below the Saint-Julien light. . . . My father is pilot of the port. . . . Anybody will tell you."

"I will not forget," said I.

She bade us goodnight very prettily, stepped back out of the circle of torch-light, and vanished—there is no other word for it.

CHAPTER XII

Jacqueline.

The stars were still shining when I awoke in my blanket, lighted a candle, and stepped into the kitchen tub of salt water outside the tent.

I shivered by candle-light, dressed in my worn riding-breeches and jacket, then, candle in hand, began groping about among the faded bits of flannel and tarnished properties until I found the silver-scaled swimming-tights once worn by the girl of whom we had heard so much.

The stars had begun to fade when I stepped out through the dew-soaked elow carrying in one hand a satchel containing the swimming suit, in the other a gun case, in which, carefully rolled and doubly cased in flannel, reposed my only luxury—my breech-loading shotgun.

The lizard was standing on his door-sill when I came up. He returned my greeting sullenly. His keen eyes of a sea-bird riving over me from head to foot. A rumpled and sulky yellow cat, evidently just awake, sat on the doorstep beside him and yawned at intervals. The pair looked as though they had made a night of it.

"You took my letter last night?" I asked.

"Yes."

"Was there an answer for me?"

"Yes."

So I took the letter and read it—a formal line saying the Countess de Vaneart would expect me at five that afternoon.

"Look here, Lizard," I said, "I intend to be friends with you, and I mean to make you look on me as a friend. It's to my advantage and to yours."

"To mine?" he inquired, sneeringly.

"And this is the first time I want," I continued, and without further preface I unfolded our plans concerning Jacqueline.

"Entendu," he said, drawing the word, "is that all?"

"No, not all. I want you to be my messenger in time of need. I want you to be absolutely faithful to me."

"And what is there in this, to my advantage, m'sieu?"

"This, for one thing," I said, carefully, picking up my gun case. "I slowly drew out the barrels of Damascus, then the rose-wood stock and fore-end, assembling them lovingly; for it was the finest weapon I had ever seen, and it was breaking my heart to give it away."

The poacher's eyes began to glitter as I fitted the double bolts and locked breech and barrel with the exterior rib. Then I snapped on the fore-end; and there lay the gun in my hands, a fowling-piece fit for an emperor.

"Give it?" muttered the poacher, huskily.

"Take it, my friend the Lizard," I replied, smiling down the wrench in my hand.

There was a silence; then the poacher stepped forward, and, looking me square in the eye, flung out his hand. I struck my open palm smartly against his, in the Breton fashion; then we clasped hands.

"Strike!" he cried; "take my friendship if you want it, on this condition—what I am in my own concern, not yours. Don't interfere, m'sieu; it would be useless. I should never betray you, but I might kill you. Don't interfere. But if you care for the good will of a man like me, take it; and when you desire a service from me, I will do it."

"Will you take me?" she cried.

"Yes, Jacqueline."

"Then I thank you, M'sieu Scarlett, and you, monsieur. And I will be waiting for you when you come. We live in the house below the Saint-Julien light. . . . My father is pilot of the port. . . . Anybody will tell you."

Jacqueline placed the few dishes in a pan of hot water, wiped her fingers, daintily, and picked up Ange Pitou.

"Show me the swimming suit," she said, shyly.

I drew it out of the satchel and laid it across my knees.

"Oh, it has a little tail behind—like a fish!" she cried, enchanted. "I shall look like the silver grille of Quimper!"

"Do you think you can swim in those scales?" I asked.

"Swim? I—Jacqueline! Attendez-moi—you shall see!"

She opened her arms; the cat sprang to the doorstep and vanished.

Jacqueline looked at the swimming suit, then at me. "Will you go down to the beach, M'sieu Scarlett?"

But I had not traversed half the strip of rock and hard sand before something flew past—a slim, glittering shape which suddenly doubled up, straightened again, and fell headlong into the thundering surf.

After a long, long while, far out on the water she rose, floating.

Tossed back once more upon the beach like an opalescent shell, Jacqueline, ankle-deep in foam, looked out across the flaming waters, her drooping hair dripping.

"Look!" she cried, flinging her arms above her head, and dropped into space, falling like a star, down, down into the shallow sea. Far below I saw a streak of living light about through the water—on, on, closer to the surface now, and at last she fairly sprang into the air, quivering like a galled salmon, then fell back to float and clear her blue eyes from her tangled hair.

Presently she climbed to the sun-warmed hillock of sand and sat down beside me to dry her hair.

Ange Pitou, coveting a warm sun-bath in the sand, came wandering along pretending not to see us; but Jacqueline dragged him into her arms for a hug, which lasted until Ange Pitou broke loose, tall hoisted but ears deaf to further flattery.

So Jacqueline, chased Ange Pitou back across the sand and up the rocky path.

"Come to the netched, if you please!" she called back to me, pointing to a crazy wooden structure built above the house.

As I entered the notched the child was dragging a pile of sea-nets to the middle of the floor.

"In case I fail," she said, coolly.

"Better let me arrange them, then," I said, glancing up at the improvised trapeze which dangled under the roof-beams.

She thanked me, seized a long rope, and went up, hand over hand. I piled the soft nets into a mattress, but decided to stand near, not liking the arrangements.

Meanwhile Jacqueline was swinging, head downward, from her trapeze. Her cheeks flamed as she twisted and wriggled through a complicated maneuver, which ended by landing her seated on the bar of the trapeze a trifle out of breath.

"You think you could drop from there into a tank of water?" I asked.

"How deep?"

"Say four feet."

She nodded, swinging tranquilly.

"You would try whatever I asked you to try?"

"If I thought I could," she replied, naively.

"But that is not it! I am to be your messenger, and you must obey orders instantly."

"Then hang by your hands!"

Quick as a flash she hung above me. "You trust me, Jacqueline?"

"Yes."

"Then drop!"

Down she flashed like a falling meteor. "I caught her with that quick trick known to all acrobats, which left her clanking on my knee."

"Jump!"

She sprang lightly to the heap of nets, lost her balance, stumbled, and sat down very suddenly. Then she threw back her head and laughed.

THE TEST OF SUCCESS.

As Outlined by a Great Highway Builder.

"If you want to know whether you are destined to be a success or failure in life, you can easily find out. This test is simple and it is infallible: Are you Able to Save Money? If not, you will lose; the seed of success is not in you, but if you can save, you will surely acquire a competence."

The Stage and The Players.

The Ladder Episode in "The Girl of My Dreams."

THE SOISSON.

"QUO VADIS" TONIGHT.

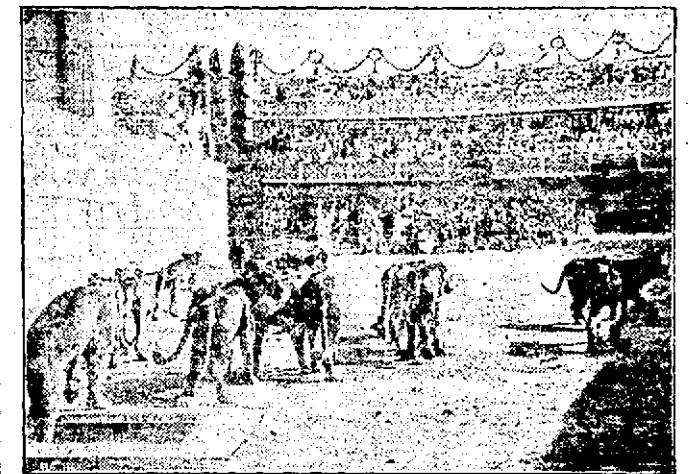

"Quo Vadis" that marvelous photo-drama production that George Kidding is presenting in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and half a dozen other cities with such marked success is frequently described by the press as a "revelation" of the conflict between the pagans and the Christians in Nero's time. It is all that and more. To the thoughtful observer of this day and hour it means something else. It means a conflict between the ancient and the actor for possession of the stage, and public patronage. And the big question is: what is to become of the actor? When a photo-drama can hold the rapt and undivided attention of a vast audience for two hours and a quarter as "Quo Vadis" does, without a single utterance of the human voice and to the occasional accompaniment of an organ only—what chance has the poor actor? The camera takes compass things of greater magnitude and proportion than any stage production by mere man. What theatre in this country could hold the wonderful pageant displayed in Nero's court scenes—the feasts and banquets? What stage could reproduce the thrilling episodes of the arena with its chariot race, combats, lions, etc. in the pictures fully 2,500 people are shown in state of mind, excitement and enthusiasm. No stage in America could hold this scene with living actors. At the Soisson Theatre tonight.

"THE GIRL OF MY DREAMS."

"The Girl of My Dreams" called an atmospheric musical comedy, which has made countless friends in the theatre where it has appeared, will be the attraction at the Soisson Theatre tonight and night, Saturday, September 27. The chief interest of the story centers in Harry Sullivan, who is a reformer "Lucky Meddler," a Quaker, a milliner "Daphne," and a Mrs. Lombardino, who are caught in Harry's house and cause the little Quakeress' confidence in Harry to be shaken. General Lombardino, the husband, a jovial fellow, and a German count, all well defined characters. The music by the late Karl Henschke has character of a high class and the songs are "Quaker Talk," "The Letter You Shouldn't Have Sent," "Dear Little Games of Guessing," "Dear Star of a Marionette," and "Doctor Tinkle Tinkle," a decidedly catchy number which demands encore after encore. "The Girl of My Dreams" has proved a worthy successor to the phenomenal success "Three Twins."

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Among the notable scenes of Kidding & Martin's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" which is to be at the Soisson Theatre, Saturday and night, Monday, September 22, is the St. Claude home, showing

Exquisite Silks in Tints, Patterns, Colors and Designs New to This City

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY and FRIDAY, THIS WEEK,

Wright-Metzler's is Connellsville's reliable silk store and its weaves are accepted by critical people without question. So it behooves us to keep abreast of the times—and to keep bad silks out of the stocks.

This EXPOSITION of FASHIONABLE Silks will prove the store's undisputed leadership in fine and durable textures. We have made the most extensive preparations in the ten years of our history to have this gathering not only surpass in beauty and luxuriance all similar displays ever held here, but also to eclipse all others in this vicinity.

Because of the great wealth of magnificent designs and textures, the Dry Goods Store is inadequate for properly displaying every new piece at one time. That you may see ALL the beautiful weaves, come each day of the exhibit. Displays will be changed daily, bringing forward the unshown pieces and shelving those viewed the day before.

THE SILK SECTION is transformed into a bower of loveliness by the sumptuous weaves in vogue this season, each serving as a foil to bring out the glories of the other, and all conforming to one unvarying requirement—soft, exquisite suppleness to permit their falling into the graceful draperies of the moment.

Our foreign purchases this season are more than double those of former years. Many of the pieces were imported direct and are exclusive to this store. There is not too much of any one novelty or color, making for greater exclusiveness to the purchaser.

BROCHES of beautiful brocaded silks occupy first place, and many of the most striking novelties of the season will make lavish use of these exquisite, shimmering weaves. They seem scarcely to have been woven, so beautiful are they in texture. Rather do they look like wonderful pieces of hammered metal.

PLAIN COLOR SILKS. The variety, both in weaves and colors, is almost unlimited—more than one hundred different shades being shown. Practically everything in colored silks is duplicated in black, from the modest plain weave to the highest-class brocaded novelty.

Please accept this as our personal invitation to see the lovely Silks for Autumn, 1913, and with it our assurance that no such variety and exclusiveness can be seen elsewhere in town.

SPEAKING of Prices—

OURS ARE SO GRADUATED THAT THE MODERATE PURSE AND THE LAVISHLY FILLED ALIKE MAY SATISFY THEIR NEEDS.

FROM THE SIMPLE LINGERIE SILK AT 50c TO THE MOST SPANGLING MATLASSE AT $5.00, A LONG RANGE OF MANY STEPS COVERS ALL DEMANDS.

PRACTICALLY every sort of standard and fashionable silk is here:

Broche Crepe de Chine.
Egyptian Crepe, Egyptian Imprime
Canton Crepe, Silk Lponge,
Plain Crepe de Chine, Moire,
Crepe Meteor, Matlasse,
Printed Dresden, Bengaline,
Pompadour Silk, Satin,
Silk Poplin, Mandarin Silk,
Plain Messaline, Charmeuse,
Broche Charmeuse, Velvets,
Gold and Silver Vestings.

New Dress Trimmings and Buttons

In trimmings the tendency is toward richness rather than any great elaboration, a mode doubtless brought about by the decided pronouncement for color. In braid appliques, for instance, the color note is particularly strong. These appliques are in motifs which may be used separately, heighten their effect when placed in contrast with a less vivid background.

Elaborate Girdles greatly enhance the beauty of afternoon and evening gowns, and are one of the season's novelties.

Prominence is also given to JETS which played so important a part during the recent fashion openings abroad. These are made up into fringes, tassels, trimmings and narrow edges.

VESTS of velvet, embroidered in chenille, Pearl Ornaments, Boleros of net and marabou are correct.
BUTTONS continue to be extensively used as trimmings, and are here in a legion of odd shapes, designs and colors.
